

Enlist Your Teachers as Partners in Your Learning

RETSD Adult Education Program teachers are adult educators. Even if they also teach, or have taught, adolescents, they know that adults are different. You can expect them to understand the issues you face, because, as adults themselves, they would face similar issues if they were to take a course. They want to help you learn and they are willing to accommodate reasonable requests. Ask questions if you don't understand something – we are willing to bet that if something is not clear to you, others in the class have the same problem. There is no such thing as a stupid question here.
