

Conspiracy 365, April By Gabrielle Lord

Imagine being hunted as a fugitive for something you didn't do? Well Callum Ormond is being accused of putting his sister in a coma and shooting his uncle but it wasn't him. Now he is on the run. His dad died after he came back from Ireland very sick. In Ireland he was looking for a secret that would make the Ormond family very rich and famous. Now Cal is searching for the exact same thing with help from his dad's drawings and clues that were given to him. The drawings have clues to do with the secret. The secret has something to do with the Ormond riddle and the Ormond singularity but Callum doesn't know what any of those things are. One day he breaks into one of the gangs houses that are after him and finds the Ormond riddle but there is one problem, it is missing 2 lines and he doesn't know what the answer to the riddle is. Cal does not know what to do next.
