The One

Book reviewer: Amber

This book, The One is the third book in the selection series. In this book, the main character's name is America. In the first book America gets picked for something called the selection, which is where 35 girls get chosen to go to the royal castle and the prince picks one of them to be his wife. The first book is all about how she gets used to being in the castle and how she doesn't want to stay. The second book is about what happens in the castle and how more and more girls keep getting eliminated. In the third book, The One it talks about how the prince is having a hard time picking a winner and who should be his wife. In these books there are different places to live which are based upon where you were born. They are numbered with one being the best place to live and being an upper society. There are ones, the best place to live; the twos, the second best place to live and so on until the last place is the eights and if you are an eight that is the worst place to live. You don't get to choose where you live; you live where you are born into. The royals are ones, so whoever marries the prince and becomes the queen will become a one. This book has a tragic but happy ending and I think it was a great book.

Recommendation: I recommend this book for girls' ages 11-15 or if you have read and enjoyed books that leave you wondering what will happen next.

I rate this book 4 ½ out of 5 stars
